

You are cordially invited to attend a COMMUNITY BREAKFAST

Hosted by THE UNIVERSITY OF SCRANTON'S OFFICE OF COMMUNITY RELATIONS in partnership with the COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Friday, September 19, 2014 • 8:00 a.m. to 9:30 a.m.
McIlhenny Ballroom, 4th floor, Patrick and Margaret DeNaples Center

Featuring

JAY SULLIVAN

Managing Partner at Exec|Comm and Author of Raising Gentle Men: Lives at the Orphanage Edge

Topic: “Bringing Who We Are to What We Do”

2014 Best Book by a small publisher,
Catholic Press Association

After graduating from Boston College in 1984, Sullivan spent two years teaching English in Jamaica through the Boston College International Volunteer Program. His book, Raising Gentle Men: Lives at the Orphanage Edge, is based on his experience as “the only man in the convent” helping a small group of Sisters of Mercy care for Kingston’s poorest children. Now, as the Managing Partner of a communication consulting firm, Sullivan teaches business professionals how they can be more successful by focusing less on themselves and more on others.

Please RSVP by Sept. 8, 2014 to 570-941-4419 or community@scranton.edu.

Guests choosing to park in the University’s Parking Pavilion are restricted to levels 4 & 5